MASTER OF OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY

The Master of Occupational Health and Safety at Curtin is an internationally accredited program that has been designed to equip graduates with the skills and attributes required in the profession.

Occupational health and safety professionals work to ensure the development of safer and healthier workplaces, making a significant contribution to industry efficiency through the prevention of injury, occupational diseases and adverse environmental impacts.

Units are offered face-to-face at the Singapore campus and are supplemented with web-based learning. Knowledge in the core discipline areas is combined with skills in communication, critical thinking and problem solving to develop innovative, confident graduates with a diverse range of employment opportunities.

Several merit based scholarships are currently available. All enrolled students will be considered.
